Morris to Face Student Quiz

President Delyte W. Morris will "face the campus" April 8, when he meets with SIU students to answer their questions.

The question session will follow a press conference with President Morris, to be conducted by SIU's undergraduate chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society.

The conference, one of many activities scheduled in conjunction with Journalism Week on campus April 7-10, will be held at 5 p.m. in Muckelroy Auditorium of the Agriculture Building.

The conference will be taped by WSIL, to be shown at a later date.

During the first portion of the program a panel of Sigma Delta Chi members will question Morris about various aspects of the University.

The floor will be opened to questions by students during the last half hour. Students will be allowed to ask any questions they wish.

The Morris press conference will be the first of a series conducted by the journalism fraternity. Tentative plans call for a series featuring University officials answering questions about specific areas of student life.

Moore's Talk to Kick Off Yeats Festival Here

First event on the year-long Yeats Festival at SIU, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of the celebrated Irish poet, will be a public lecture by Harry T. Moore, SIU research professor of English, on Monday.

Moore, a noted scholar of the Irish Renaissance period, will speak on the subject, "Why Yeats?"

Other speakers scheduled for the spring quarter, according to Ralph W. Bushee, rare books librarian and festival chairman, include Thomas Kinsella, contemporary Irish poet, Prof. Curtis Bradford of Grinnell College, and Liam Bergin, Irish newspaper editor who is currently on the faculty of the SIU journalism department.

Kinsella, Bradford and Bergin will repeat their lectures at the Alton Center of the Edwardsville campus.

Dates for their lectures follow: Kinsella, April 20 at Carbondale, April 21 at the Alton Center; Bradford, May 10 at Carbondale, May 12 at the Alton Center; Bergin, May 24 at Carbondale, May 28 at Alton.

Lectures at the Carbondale campus are scheduled in the Morris Library Auditorium at 8 p.m. Those at the Alton Center will be in Auditorium 200 at 8:15 p.m. The public is invited to all the programs. Admission is free.

he found that his coach had called from California, stating that the meet was not to be held for another week, but that Inouye should go on to SIU and wait for the finals.

The short, well-built gymnast proceeded to Carbondale and spent the night at the Gray Hotel. The next day he called the University and explained the situation.

Since that time, Inouye has taken up residence at 101 Small Group Housing and spent most of his time relaxing or working out in preparation for the finals.

Inouye said that aside from the embarrassment, the whole thing has turned out pretty good for him, because if he were still at Long Beach he would be attending classes and couldn't practice as much as he can here.

Another good point about the unexpected vacation is the fact that after a week working out in the Arena, the California gymnast will probably be the most relaxed visiting participant in the NCAA event.

The gymnastic events will begin at 1:30 p.m. Friday and will continue all day Saturday. CBS television is sending a crew of 14 men to SIU to tape the show for broadcast sometime in May on the "CBS Sports Spectacular."

Need Dean's OK; $3 Fee Charged

Registration and advisement of students who were in school winter quarter but who did not advance register, will begin today in the SIU Arena.

Students in this category must have already secured the approval of the dean and must have an appointment. A $3 late fee will be charged for today's registration.

Program changes will be processed if registration is not too heavy.

On Thursday, advisement, registration and program changes for all students will continue, but not in the Arena.

Advisement and registration will move back to its offices in the building at the south end of the University Center.

Sectioning and program changes will be processed on the second floor of the University Center.

Monday will be the last day to register or add a course by program change without the dean's approval. The late fee will advance to $5.

April 10 will be the last day to register or add a course with the dean's approval of the program. After this date, unregistered students might as well pack their bags because the closing college doors will be slammed on registration for spring.

Appointments for advisement will also begin next Monday in the Olympic room of the University Center.

Seniors will receive appointments Monday, juniors will set their dates Tuesday and General Studies students will receive appointments April 7 and 8.

Others who missed their designated times will receive appointments on April 8.

Relaxed Contender for NCAA "Lost Week" in Chilly Southern Illinois Gives Californian a Jump on His Rival Gymnasts

By Frank Messersmith

The early bird may catch the worm, but Minie Inouye, a senior at Long Beach State College in California, didn't come to SIU to catch worms.

However, he was early—about a week early to be exact.

Inouye is a gymnast at the California school, and he traveled here to participate in the NCAA Gymnastic Finals that will be held this weekend in the Arena.

Unfortunately, as things do happen some times, Inouye got the dates of the meet mixed up and he left sunny California last Friday, a week early, bound for snow-and-ice-blanketed Southern Illinois to join the other gymnasts from across the nation.

When his flight landed at Kansas City, Inouye was paged on the loud speaker system. Arriving at the flight desk,

Why Do Students Go to SIU? Reasons Vary With Intention

One day in Marine Corps recruit training was enough to direct Philip A. Shapiro of Chicago toward an institution of higher education.

This finding emerged in a series of interviews to determine why some SIU students chose the school at Carbondale.

Shapiro, a senior from Chicago who is majoring in marketing, said, "After I got out of high school, I joined the Marine Corps. My brother was already a student here and he sold me on the idea that a person needs an education today to be a better credit to society. He didn't have to tell me that, because I made up my mind to go to college after the first day in boot camp."

The survey produced a variety of reasons why students came to SIU.

Anthony Popone, a senior from Chicago who is majoring in recreation, said, "When I was going to Wright Junior College in Chicago, one instructor recommended that I come here. I'm glad I took his advice."

The Department of Chemistry attracted Jerry D. Rex, a senior from Champaign who is majoring in this field. Southern's department is "top-notch," Rex said, and "it will mean a lot when I go looking for a job."

A teacher's scholarship brought Janet M. Nicpon to SIU. She is a senior from Glen Ellyn who is majoring in home economics. "I wouldn't trade Southern for any other school," she said.

Mrs. Nicpon also found a husband at SIU, she added.

James R. Standard of Lockport, a senior majoring in government, touched three bases in explaining his reasons for coming to SIU. "I came here for a lot of laughs; I have the laughs and the grades as well and besides, no other school would have me," he declared.

One respondent came to SIU with one purpose, but finds it has changed. She is Barbara L. Van Dyke of Maywood, a junior who is majoring in recreation.

"I did not want to get married and did not want to work, so I did the next best thing and went to Southern. At first, it was something to do but now I have an education that I can apply to help others less fortunate than myself," she said.

Still another reason was given by Pamela Greenshields of Wood River, a senior majoring in interior design. "I came here for the excitement," she said.

A coed who insisted on anonymity confided this reason: "I've been to five schools prior to this. I'll find a husband here, or transfer."

Spring Sprang Leak in Sky; Snow and Sleet Greet Break

Henceforth and hereafter, spring break will be called winter break.

Harrowing tales of snow and sleet, cold and storm are being related by returning SIU students. The ice age returneth.

The fortunate fled to Florida. The astute advanced on Acapulco. South Texas tempted tourists; the Bahamas beckoned.

But for the herd, it was sleet and slush, no sun and sand. The promise of spring in the air was clouded by falling flakes; all the old homestead lacked was a Christmas tree and the Yule log.

One student from the far reaches of northern Illinois, sometimes referred to as the tundra, traded in his Honda for eight huskies and an Eskimo sled. Trekking back, he made it as far as Litchfield before he ran out of snow and put wheels under the runners for the balance of the trip.

The dogs held up well. The Chicago area was in good shape, a number of students reported. The Black Hawks are playing in Soldier Field and crowds of nearly 100,000 are expected for the Stanley Cup playoffs. This will represent the first Chicago hockey on natural ice in 47 years.

The opponents will be skating in via Lake Michigan. Some of the flowers had bloomed in Carbondale just before the break. They looked real weird coated with a quarter inch of ice. So did the security officer who tarried several minutes too long at the corner of Grand and University.

A number of SIU students who did get to Florida are now hospitalized with pneumonia; the first day back proved too great a strain on their pampered constitutions.

Meanwhile, "spring" term has started, and better days are ahead. The sun will emerge for two consecutive days to blister the student body, for if spring term starts, can spring be far behind?

SIU Clinical Services Center Operates 9 Unsung Agencies

For several hundred students annually, a quiet service center at SIU is a source of help in a wide range of mental and physical problems.

Known as the Cooperative Clinical Services Center, the unit is composed of nine clinical agencies that were combined in 1958 into one centralized office located in the Wham Education Building.

The oldest unit, the Child Guidance Clinic, dates to 1939. Other units are the Health Service, the Department of Psychology, the Department of Speech Correction, Sociology, Special Education, Elementary Education, Counseling and Testing and the Rehabilitation Institute.

Combining the clinics has provided easier accessibility to the public, Alden M. Hall, center manager, said. And, service is a basic purpose of the center.

It offers to SIU students and faculty, as well as to anyone else who needs them, such services as speech and hearing therapy, marriage counseling; psychotherapy and vocational counseling.

Services are provided free to full-time students, except for a nominal fee for physical therapy. Others who can afford it pay. But, no one is turned away for lack of funds, Hall said.

Each clinical unit cooperates with one another. If, for instance, a patient has a cleft palate or other physical disability, which has resulted in a mental problem, the Department of Speech Correction, the Rehabilitation Institute and the Department of Psychology would combine their specialists and doctors to help him.

The clinic draws upon various University academic units for its staff. Professional marriage counselors, for example, are provided by the Sociology Department, while medical staff members are drawn from the University Health Service.

Also, the clinical units serve as a practical laboratory for students in various areas of counseling.

PRIMITIVE ART—J. Charles Kelley (left), Southern Illinois University Museum director, and Roger O. Rumrey, graduate student worker, from Argentina, unpack artifacts from the Morton D. May Collection of primitive art of New Guinea and other oceanic areas.

New Guinea Art

Exhibit Set Sunday

One of the United States most complete collections of New Guinea and Oceanic-area primitive art will be placed on display in the SIU Museum starting Sunday, April 11.

The Morton D. May Collection, which will be exhibited through May 14, consists of many carved wooden objects representing the everyday activities as well as the religious symbolism of the primitive peoples.

"The value of the collection is twofold," Jack E. Porter, Museum educational curator, said. "The artifacts are aesthetically valuable but they also tell a great deal about the culture of the remote and primitive people of New Guinea."

The SIU Museum last year received as a gift from May, St. Louis department store magnate, more than a dozen pieces of New Guinea art.

Porter pointed out that it was while collecting artifacts for the Museum of Primitive Art in New York City that Michael Rockefeller, son of the New York governor, lost his life in New Guinea.

The May collection will be shown in the Museum galleries in Altgeld Hall.

An 'Onion' Grows at Allyn

Southern Illinois in the spring is perhaps one of the most picturesque parts of the United States, and it is at this time of the year that the SIU campus truly blooms.

However, there is an onion in the flower patch. And that is the junk yard behind the Allyn Building where students in the Department of Art store art supplies consisting of car bumpers, scrap iron and other assorted materials.

The University presently employs 29 men for maintenance work around the campus. They don't necessarily pick up litter and trash from the grounds, or run a lawn mower all the time, but they all contribute, in some way, to improving the appearance of the campus.

It seems ironic that 29 men should be employed to keep the grounds looking nice, when right smack in the middle of the University is the Allyn Building Scrap Yard.

As long as there is a need for storing the art objects behind the building, it would seem feasible to construct some sort of fence to hide the scrap iron scab.

Or, as long as University workers are so adept at moving trees, perhaps they could relocate several of the bushiest trees they can find, next to the ones already growing behind Allyn. In this way, the blight could be covered in a more scenic manner.

'GOT ANY OF THAT "RIOT MIST" HANDY?'

Letter to the Editor

WSIU Radio Isn't 'Voice of Students'

In the Daily Egyptian of March 17 a very interesting and complete story on WSIU and a bit of its history was printed in a very prominent place on page 2. I found the article quite pleasing.

There was, however, one gross misphrasing which was used twice and I feel it is only fair to WSIU, Southern Illinois University, and all of Southern Illinois that this be corrected with all due haste.

WSIU is not a campus (student voice) radio station! There is at this time no campus radio station on the SIU campus.

WSIU was founded as and is (and will continue to be) a radio service to Southern Illinois. This is pointed up by the fact that there is no programming presently on the air which is aimed strictly at the students or faculty of this University.

Had this been a minor error which could go uncorrected this letter would not have been written, but this is a major error in that this misconception has been growing in recent years due to the drive to gain a student radio voice.

End the Hear-No-Evil Doctrine

For the last several weeks there has been a controversy over whether or not avowed Communists should be permitted to use public facilities, specifically whether they should be allowed to appear on the campus of a state university. Many voices have been raised by public officials in opposition to such appearances.

I am as opposed to the principles and doctrines of communism as any mayor in Southern Illinois. However, I do not believe that it is in the public interest to try to pretend that communism does not exist; that it is sufficient to tell our young people that communism is bad simply because we say it is. It is important that our youth understand the "what" and the "why" when we say our system is best. To deny them the privilege of understanding for themselves is to imply a lack of faith in ourselves and our system.

When we get down to the bare essentials we find that there is involved in this issue an element of liberty, the same liberty referred to on the front pages of our newspapers every day. I think Justice Brandeis of the U.S. Supreme Court might well have been addressing this issue when he wrote the following in 1927: "Those who won our independence believed that the final end of the state was to make men free to develop their faculties; and that in its government the deliberative forces should prevail over the arbitrary. They valued liberty both as an end and as a means. They believed liberty to be the secret of happiness, and courage to be the secret of liberty. They believed that freedom to think as you will and to speak as you think are means indispensable to the discovery and spread of political truth; that without free speech and assembly, discussion would be futile; that with them discussion affords ordinarily adequate protection against the dissemination of noxious doctrine; that the greatest menace to freedom is an inert people; that public discussion is a political duty; and that this should be a fundamental principle of the American government." (Whitney vs. California, 274 U.S. 357, 47 S. Ct. 641, 71 L. Ed. 1095)

For those still in doubt may I suggest that they read John Stuart Mill's classic defense of liberty, which has a surprisingly contemporary sound to the issue presently involved. Writing on the liberty of thought and expression, Mill said:

"If all mankind minus one were of one opinion, and only one person were of the contrary opinion, mankind would be no more justified in silencing mankind. Were an opinion a personal possession of no value except to the owner; if to be obstructed in the enjoyment of it were simply a private injury, it would make some difference whether the injury was inflicted only on a few persons or many. But the peculiar evil of silencing the expression of an opinion is that it is robbing the human race; posterity as well as the existing generation; those who dissent from the opinion, still more than those who hold it. If the opinion is right, they are deprived of the opportunity of exchanging error for truth; if wrong, they lose, what is almost as great a benefit, the clearer perception and livelier impression of truth, produced by its collision with error."

Viewed in this light I believe it becomes evident that it is to our advantage to allow free expression to those disseminators of "noxious doctrine." To do so is, in the long run, to allow them to dig their own graves. At the same time it is our responsibility not to indoctrinate, but to educate our citizens that they may have "the clearer perception and livelier impression of truth, produced by its collision with error"; that through understanding they may gain wisdom.

IRVING DILLIARD

A High Point in Presidency

Make no mistake about it, one of the very highest points in the history of the Presidency beginning with George Washington's inauguration in 1789 was reached by Lyndon B. Johnson in his address to Congress and the nation in support of full citizenship, including the effective right to vote in all elections, for all Americans regardless of race.

The former representative and senator from Texas, with "roots that go deeply in southern soil," did what no other President has ever done. He identified himself and his great office intensely and the Negro cause.

Irving Dilliard

Quotable Comments

Likening the struggle for justice at Selma, Ala., to the stand of the oppressed colonists at Lexington and Concord, the President delivered a message so packed with quotable paragraphs that it is hard to select one or two for attention over the others. Yet here are words that are especially memorable: "The real hero of this struggle is the American Negro. His actions and his protests, his courage to risk safety, and even to risk his life, have awakened the conscience of this nation. His demonstrations have been designed to call attention to injustice; designed to provoke change; designed to stir reform."

"He has called upon us to make good the promise of America. And who among us can say that we would have made the same progress were it not for his persistent bravery and faith in American democracy?"

A Century of Neglect

This is a healthy and proper admission by the President for all of us. It is the admission that we were content for almost a century to look the other way, to be unconcerned about the Negro and his lot, to accept his second-class citizenship as a matter of course, to have little or no care about the "separate but equal" fraud in education.

The Wallaces and Barnetts may talk all they like against the so-called trouble-makers from northern churches and colleges. Now what they say will be emptier than before. For the President of all the people has put the national indorsement on those, both white and Negro, like the martyred Unitarian minister, Rev. James J. Reeb of Boston, who cared enough about freedom and justice for all Americans to challenge the fascist bullies whose nightsticks now are stayed.

There is only one conceivable response in Congress to President Johnson's eloquent and moving appeal. That is to enact an adequate, strong, comprehensive, and at the same time simple law that guarantees the right to vote in all federal, state, and municipal elections. And to pass it forthwith. There is not the slightest excuse for long hearings and trumped-up delays. Let the leaders of Congress show what they can do when they set themselves to it!

A Debt to Pioneers

If we owe a deep debt to the President for vowing that "we shall overcome," we owe one also to Martin Luther King, James Farmer, Roy Wilkins, Whitney Young, A. Philip Randolph, and the other Negro leaders who have counseled moderation and peacefulness in the long months of protest.

And we owe a debt too to those who pioneered this trail—brave Americans like William Lloyd Garrison, Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, Jane Addams, Oswald Garrison Villard, Walter White, Eleanor Roosevelt, and Aubrey Williams. They did not hear Lyndon Johnson's great stand for human equality, but they helped make it possible.

Cuban Troops May Be Sent To Viet Nam

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials believe that Cuba may be preparing to send a detachment of troops to fight alongside Viet Cong rebels in South Viet Nam.

They believe that Fidel Castro may resort to such a tactic to show the Soviet Union and Red China that he is not afraid to support North Viet Nam, now under increasing U.S. air attack.

In a March 13 address in Havana, Castro bitterly attacked the two Communist giants for lack of unity and failure to run the necessary risks to assure a Viet Cong victory.

The U.S. belief that Castro may send troops to Viet Nam is based on a recent speech by Deputy Cuban Armed Forces Minister Juan Almeida. In it he said Cuba must stand ready to support revolutionary struggles in "all countries of the world."

Precedent for such a move was established last year when Castro sent a symbolic force to Algeria at the time of the Moroccan border dispute.

Although lacking in heavy air and sea-lift capabilities, Cuba has several cargo vessels which could be outfitted to carry troops to Southeast Asia.

It also has plenty of manpower, Cuba's revolutionary armed forces are estimated to number between 150,000 and 200,000 men.

Gov. Wallace Meets With Leaders Of Alabama Civil Rights Drive

By Rex Thomas

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace listened Tuesday to the grievances of Alabama civil rights leaders, raising cautious hopes for easing the state's bitter racial strife.

Wallace received a petition from the group which asked his leadership in opening biracial communications. Neither he nor the civil rights leaders indicated what might result from the meeting which lasted an hour and 20 minutes.

Alabama's racial conflict continued to stir other parts of the nation. In Detroit, funeral services were held for a white housewife slain by night-riders on an Alabama highway last week.

A congressional committee voted unanimously to investigate the Ku Klux Klan, following the lead of President Johnson, who assailed the hooded order after the arrest of four Klansmen in the slaying Thursday night of Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit.

The Montgomery meeting between Wallace and 15 civil rights leaders was the first such high-level biracial conference since a Negro voter drive started 10 weeks ago in Alabama, setting off sporadic violence that has killed three persons.

"We are hopeful," said the Rev. Joseph E. Lowery of Birmingham, a Negro, spokesman for the delegation. "It is too early to say whether it was a fruitful meeting."

Wallace had no statement. His press secretary, Bill Jones, told newsmen the governor "had a very friendly and frank discussion with the group. He received their petition and he reiterated the fact that his office is always open to Alabamians, regardless of race, creed, color of national origin."

The petition asked Wallace to help start biracial talks, remove the $1.50 yearly state poll tax and initiate appointment of Negroes to state jobs, including the highway patrol.

Most of the group had sought a meeting with Wallace after a massive march to the statehouse Thursday. The governor had said he was willing, but the delegation arrived after he had gone for the day.

Several of the group are officers of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), which is headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. King, leader of the Alabama drive, attended the funeral for Mrs. Liuzzo in Detroit.

All were Negroes except the Rev. Joseph Ellwanger of Birmingham.

They were from Birmingham, Selma, Montgomery, Tuscaloosa, Huntsville, Mobile and Tuskegee.

The Klan probe was voted by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said a preliminary study indicated "shocking crimes are carried out by highly secret action groups within the Klans."

El Cobre Buried

Central Chile Commences Digging Out After Quake

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A major relief and reconstruction program was launched Tuesday in central Chile, ravaged by an earthquake that may have taken as many as 425 lives.

Hardest hit was El Cobre, a mining village 80 miles north of Santiago, where an earthen dam collapsed, burying perhaps as many as 400 persons under mud and debris. Rescue workers pulled 45 bodies from the mud at El Cobre. Most of the rest probably will remain buried under tons of rock and mud, now hardening in the early autumn sun.

The Interior Ministry said 25 persons were killed elsewhere in Sunday's quake.

The number of injured and homeless ran into the thousands. Damage was in the millions of dollars.

President Eduardo Frei ordered the emergency relief program into action after returning from an inspection tour of the disaster area Monday.

The government sped food, medicine and clothing to dozens of towns and villages where the suffering was greatest.

Work gangs began rebuilding damaged highways and railroads. Water, light and telephone service were being restored slowly.

At the funeral for Mrs. Liuzzo, mother of five children, the Rev. James Sheehan of the Roman Catholic church said a priest told him Mrs. Liuzzo had a premonition of danger the night she was slain.

Before the service, King was handed a $25,000 check by Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa to aid the civil rights drive.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Lawrence Gubow attended the services as a representative of President Johnson.

At Selma, about 350 persons, most of them Negroes, held a brief memorial service for Mrs. Liuzzo and then traveled to the scene of the slaying for another service.

Two Klan leaders, meanwhile, rejected a Justice Department move for a discussion of their request to meet with the President. Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta, Georgia grand dragon of United Klans, said he received a telegram Tuesday from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach who said a departmental attorney would contact the Klan leaders.

Craig said he had no intention of meeting with the attorney, St. John Barrett of the civil rights division. And Robert M. Shelton Jr., Klan imperial wizard, said in Tuscaloosa, Ala., he had no desire to "see any servants of the house."

In another development, Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala., told a House judiciary subcommittee that enactment of the administration's voter-rights bill "would be a surrender to threats of violence and mob action."

Selden's home is in Greensboro, which is among the Negro voting drive targets in Alabama.

Illinois Senate OKs $3,000 Pay Increase

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A bill to increase salaries of state legislators from the present $6,000 a year to $9,000 sailed through the Illinois Senate Tuesday.

The measure was sent to the House on a 39-13 vote.

"We've raised salaries for judges and county officials," said Sen. Frank Kocarek, D-Chicago, sponsor of the legislation, "It's about time we raised our own salaries."

Sen. William Harris, R-Pontiac, said in support of the measure that members were not voting salary increases for themselves. He noted that members would have to be re-elected before they could receive the pay hike.

Several backers contended the salary boost was necessary because of the long hours devoted to legislative duties.

"The people of my district assume this is a part-time job," said Sen. George Drach, R-Springfield, who cast a "no" vote.

Shortly before the Senate passed the bill, a Deerfield resident filed suit in the Illinois Supreme Court to prohibit the state from paying legislators more than $6,000 a year.

The suit was filed by John E. Coons against State Auditor Michael Howlett, State Treasurer William J. Scott and State Finance Director James Ronan.

Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held recently that legislators are entitled to a $1,500 annual pay raise as a result of action by the legislature and Gov. Otto Kerner in 1963.

After the 1963 session, Kerner vetoed a bill which would have increased salaries by $1,500 a year. However, he signed another measure, an omnibus appropriation bill, which contained provisions for the pay hike.

Salaries for legislators were raised from $5,000 to $6,000 a year in 1957.

bated a bill which would restrict their mileage expenses.

The measure, by Rep. John Morris, D-Chadwick, would permit legislators to collect 10 cents a mile for the most direct highway route between their homes and Springfield.

Legislators now receive 10 cents a mile for the most feasible route to and from Springfield. They collect for one round trip weekly while the legislature is in session.

Rep. Leo Pfeffer, D-Seymour, an opponent of the bill, won adoption of an amendment to require any legislator who has overcharged the state to refund the money with interest.

Two Women Found Slain on Farm Near Johnson City

JOHNSON CITY, Ill. (AP) — The bodies of two women, one apparently bludgeoned and the other apparently shot and strangled, were found Tuesday on a farm near this Southern Illinois community.

Dead were Mrs. Grace Ewing, 68, whose skull police said had been crushed with a heavy instrument, and her niece, Mrs. Louise Nance, 49, whom police said had apparently been shot once in the back of the head, strangled and possibly raped.

Mrs. Nance's body was found in the basement of the farmhouse the two women share.

Mrs. Ewing's body was found in a woodshed behind the farmhouse.

Sheriff Carl Miller of Williamson County said a suspect was being questioned. He refused to divulge the suspect's name.

Miller said the home had been ransacked, doors pulled from their hinges and clothes scattered about on beds. He said he did not yet know if valuables had been removed from the house.

Miller said he would question Mrs. Nance's daughter, Sheila, 14, who also lived in the house. Sheila had been visiting relatives in Herrin, four miles away, when the bodies were discovered.

Miller said the women had apparently been dead since Saturday.

17 Killed by Terrorist Blast At U.S. Embassy in Saigon

By Peter Arnett

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The terrorist bombing of the U.S. Embassy, which killed 17 persons and wounded at least 151, stirred speculation Wednesday that the United States may strike in reprisal at Hanoi, the capital of Communist North Viet Nam.

Deputy Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, himself slashed by flying glass, bitterly condemned this "example of the Viet Cong's readiness to resort to atrocities against civilians."

One of two Americans dead was a girl secretary of the embassy, Barbara A. Robbins, 21, of Denver, Colo.

The other was a U.S. Navy petty officer, whose identity was officially withheld for the present.

Fifteen Vietnamese were killed.

After conferring with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, President Johnson announced in Washington he will ask Congress for authority and funds to begin immediate construction of a new embassy building as "one more symbol of our solidarity with the people of Viet Nam."

Johnson's statement denounced the bombing as a "terrorist outrage" and a "wanton act of ruthlessness" that would "only reinforce the determination of the American people and government to continue and to strengthen their assistance and support for the people and government of Viet Nam."

The White House declined to say what form this assistance would take. But among the American community in Saigon the mood was clearly for a heavy new retaliatory air strike against North Viet Nam.

"After our recent raids North, what else can we do for an encore?" asked the wife of a U.S. Embassy worker.

Vietnamese soldiers and government officials shared that opinion, telling Americans in effect: "Now you have no choice, you have to bomb Hanoi."

There was a gloomy reaction in London, where Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government has been trying to find a basis for negotiation. Authorities there said the explosion shattered British hopes of arranging early talks to end the war and seemed to make massive American retaliation inevitable.

Ho Chi Minh's governmental stronghold has never been touched in raids so far by U.S. and South Vietnamese planes above the 17th Parallel.

A 39-plane task force staged the 14th raid Tuesday, but it was a previously planned operation to knock out a military airbase near Dong Hoi, 260 miles south of Hanoi. Pilots said the targets were 90 per cent destroyed.

Tuesday's embassy explosion was set off in a sedan that a terrorist parked and abandoned in front of the five-story embassy building.

About 150 embassy workers and visitors were in the embassy. Dozens of other persons were strolling outside along the wide, tree-shaded Ham Nghi Avenue, just before 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Forty-five or more Americans and at least 104 Vietnamese and non-American foreigners were injured by the explosion and the rain of broken glass and other debris from the building.

Seven of the Americans — some seriously injured and others with tricky wounds requiring specialist treatment — were flown to Clark Air Base in the Philippines.

Trackmen Prepare For Texas Relays

SIU trackmen are back on the McAndrew Stadium track this week, preparing for the big Texas Relays Friday and Saturday. The team ended its indoor season with fine performances in the Kansas Relays during the spring break and at the same time successfully opened its outdoor season.

Three indoor school records fell in the Kansas meet, as Tom Ashman finished second in the high jump with a 6-foot-7 leap, the mile relay team won in a time of 3:15.3, and Rich Ellison won the freshman pole vault with a 14-4 1/2 jump.

Records also tumbled in the outdoor Florida Relays Saturday at Gainesville where the Salukis were a late entry. Coach Lew Hartzog's squad was scheduled to compete in the Arkansas Relays Saturday, but had to make a quick shift when the meet was cancelled.

Long travel and a late arrival seemed not to bother the squad, as it turned in three winning performances in five events at the 22nd running of the Relays.

Hartzog's fast improving squad won the mile relay, the distance medley and the sprint medley. Speedy Gary Carr anchored the mile quartet to victory with a 2:20-yard time of 47.7. The other members of the team, Jerry Fendrich, Bill Cornell and Robin Coventry, were clocked in 50.1, 48.7 and 48.6 respectively.

The distance medley team of Fendrich, Carr, Cornell and Al Ackman set a new meet record in winning with a 10:00.1 clocking as Carr paved the way with a 46.9 quarter. Cornell led the sprint medley team to victory with a good 1:51 half mile.

The senior from Chelmsford, England, was awarded the Kearney-Raybun Trophy as the day's outstanding collegiate performer as he also ran a 4:12.7 mile on the distance medley, besides the 48.7 relay leg. All came within a time period of one hour and 45 minutes.

Fitness Program Resumes Monday

The physical fitness program for male members of the SIU faculty will be resumed Monday.

The program is sponsored by the Department of Physical Education for Men. The group meets at noon Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in the SIU Arena.

The program includes calisthenics and games, the department has announced.

Salukis Get Runner From '64 Olympics

SIU's track hopes got a shot in the arm yesterday when Oscar Moore, 26-year-old Olympic distance runner, enrolled here.

Moore will not be eligible to compete this year since he is a freshman, but is being tabbed by Coach Lew Hartzog to fill the gap left by senior Bill Cornell, who graduates this June.

Moore was one of the three United States entries in the 5,000-meter race in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Hartzog predicts a bright future for the distance runner and expects big things from him next year.

Moore has already recorded times of 13:59 in the 5,000 meters, 13:32 in the three-mile event and 8:42 in the two-mile.

Although Moore qualified in the No. 3 spot among U.S. Olympic 5,000-meter runners last fall, he was beaten in the Tokyo preliminaries and failed to qualify for the finals.

A leg injury has kept him from competing in most of the indoor track meets this season, but Moore expects to be at full strength by the time the outdoor track season starts.

Florida Outfielder Hits Grand Slam, 2 Doubles in Inning

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—If you hit a grand-slam home run and two doubles in a baseball game, you've done a hard day's work. But what about the guy who does all that in one inning?

Allen Trammell, a junior outfielder on the University of Florida baseball team, did all those things and more in a recent game against Kentucky.

Folks at Florida claim it's a feat without equal in the history of the game.

The first time Trammell came to bat in the sixth inning, Kentucky was leading 1-0. With men on first and second base, Trammell doubled 340 feet off the left center-field fence to knock in the tying run. He scored a minute later.

The next time up in the same inning, Trammell had three men on the bases and he clouted a fast ball 345 feet over the left center-field fence.

Even though it was getting to be monotonous, Trammell, a 5-foot-11, 185-pound halfback borrowed from the football team, doubled 360 feet off the deep center-field fence, scoring a man who was on first. As before, he too scored.

When Kentucky finally got the side out, Trammell had his grand-slam homer, the two doubles, six runs batted in and had scored three runs himself.

On the strength of Trammell's performance, Florida scored 18 runs in the sixth inning and went on to beat Kentucky 25-1.

Trammell, in Florida's 11 games to date, is batting .512 and has hit safely in 20 straight contests, including the last nine of last season. He batted .370 last year.

Florida has a 9-2 record this year.

5 SIU Gymnasts to Compete For NCAA Championships

Despite the fact the Salukis won't be participating as a team this weekend, the Saluki fans will still get a chance to see some of the performers participating as Southern will be represented by five gymnasts who will be competing for individual awards.

Frank Schmitz qualified for three events and will be trying to win NCAA titles in free exercise, trampoline and long horse.

Bill Wolf also qualified in three events and will be trying for titles in high bar, parallel bars and rings.

Brent Williams and Larry Lindauer qualified in two events. Williams will be competing for titles in long horse and trampoline and Lindauer will be going after titles in parallel bars and free exercise.

Tom Cook is the other Saluki who qualified and he will be going after the ring championship.

Penn State means that the Salukis dropped two notches and finished this season in a third place tie with Iowa State in the NCAA Finals.

Considering the fact that the Salukis competed the entire season with seven sophomores in the lineup, it is a credit to Meade and his team for their unbeaten regular season and their third place finish in the NCAA.

The two top teams, Penn State and the University of Washington square off this weekend for the championship.

Penn State is a hotbed for gymnastics as witnessed by the large crowd of 7,250 which packed the recreation building. Unlike Saluki fans, the fans there make a lot of noise and even jeer the officials when they believe their performers are not getting the high scores they think they deserve.

Frank Schmitz seems to gain the most attention wherever he goes. Being one of the few who perform on the trampoline without shoes and long pants, he was greeted with whistles as he stepped up on the trampoline.

It didn't bother him as he turned in one of his best performances of the season.

Since the gym was not big enough to get all the people in who wanted to see the meet, it was broadcasted on radio. Southern will top that this weekend as CBS will tape the highlights of the finals and show them on Sunday Spectacular later in April.

Tickets are still on sale for the finals. Unreserved seats cost $1.50 for the three sessions. Reserved seats are priced at $3. Tickets are moving fast and students and faculty are urged to get them early to assure a good seat.

Just One of Those Years

SIU Team Is Weak At Wrestling Finals

"It was our weakest showing in the last six years," said a distressed Jim Wilkinson after his wrestling had returned from Laramie, Wyo. Wilkinson was referring to his team's performance in the NCAA Wrestling Finals last weekend which saw Iowa State crowned as the new champion and the Salukis practically shut out.

"But at the same time I think we learned an awful lot and we should be in good shape for next year since most of the boys will be back," he added. Captain Don Devine was the only bright spot for the Saluki matmen as he wrestled into the quarter finals in the 115 pound division where he lost to Ernest Gillum of Iowa State 4-2.

The other three Salukis lost their opening matches. Larry Baron at 123 struggled the day before to get his weight down to that limit and it evidently took a lot out of him as he lost in the opening round to Pete Russo of Arizona State 6-4.

"It was a gamble that failed," said Wilkinson. "I didn't think he could defeat Yojiro Uetake of Oklahoma State who is the two-time champion at 130 so I thought his best chance would be at the 123 pound level."

Dan DiVito and George McCreery also lost in the opening rounds. DiVito lost to Bob Douglas of Oklahoma State in the 147 pound division and George McCreery at 157 pounds lost to Jerry Seaman of Penn State.

Wilkinson was honored at the meet as he was given a plaque for being selected by fellow wrestling coaches as coach of the year in 1964. Wilkinson summed up the season by saying that it was just one of those years. "Injuries played a big part as the team was never at full strength."

"With several of our freshman on the team next year and with the continued improvement of several of our sophomores we should be a much better team next year," Wilkinson concluded.

SIU Applies For Grant for UHF Station

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has announced it has received an application from SIU to activate UHF Channel 16 in Olney as a noncommercial educational television station.

The department said SIU's application was for a grant of $453,435. The total cost is estimated at $624,700.

Buren C. Robbins, director of the SIU Broadcasting Service, said that as now envisioned the station would relay most of WSIU-TV's programs initially.

Later programs would be developed for different geographic areas and audiences, including public and parochial schools and adult education classes.

Robbins added that the present plan is that the station will eventually become part of the State Educational Television Network.

The University is working closely with the state eventually to provide educational television for the whole state, Robbins said.

Coach Martin Pleased by Diamond Showing

Six Games Played On Trip to Texas

Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's SIU baseball team, which went south over spring break to avoid the weather, returned happily to drills under a bright Carbondale sunshine Tuesday.

Behind them they left memories of a six-game spring trip in which they saw rain threaten to halt four of their games and snow get the job done in their opener.

Despite the weather and a somewhat deceiving 2-4 record, Martin was "well pleased" with the team's performance. The veteran-laden club dropped its opening four games on the tour to Sam Houston State Teachers College at Huntsville, but came back to swap a pair of single games with Fort Hood, Tex.

The losses to Sam Houston were nothing to be ashamed of, though, as the Texans had gotten in five games before the Salukis' visit. Probably even more impressive, however, was the Texas team's double victory over defending NCAA national champion Minnesota after the victories over the Salukis.

The trip accomplished its main objectives. It gave the Salukis needed competition before they dive into their regular schedule and at the same time answered some questions in Martin's mind.

Nothing he found was too startling, though. The big weaknesses he found, hitting and lack of control by pitchers, were those that pop up early in every season when a team has had its practice hampered by the weather.

The team's overall .248 batting average on the trip isn't outstanding, but in comparison to other early season trips it holds its own. The hitting wasn't all bad though. Kent Collins rapped the ball in mid-season form as he rattled off 11 for 25 for a .440 average, including a double, triple and home run.

The pitchers also had their day as big rightlander Ed Walters gave up only two hits and a lone run in five innings of duty. Strangely enough, however, the hurlers least impressive on the statistics sheet from the trip are those in the best form at present, according to Martin.

Veterans John Hotz and Gene Vincent and promising sophomores Bill Liskey and Wayne Scramek were hit hard but showed promise. Hotz and Vincent will probably get the starting nod Saturday when the Salukis open their 26-game regular campaign against Memphis State University at Memphis.

They're supposed to be a real fine ball club," Martin said of the Tigers. But with the weather man beginning to cooperate, Martin indicated the Salukis will be ready.
